Excerpt: . . . 11 And it is oil that technology has allowed us to actually get much more easily than when we tried it in the late 1970 s. Let me point out that there are other nontraditional sources that are dramatically important. We have walked away, in the Grand Staircase Escalante National Monument, 77 billion tons of coal. That is 150 barrels of oil if you turn coal into liquid. And, in fact, a lot of people think that coal is too expensive as a source for gas because the last time we had an energy crisis, coal was very expensive. And so, in fact, in 1977, one of my power plants entered into a series of 30-year contracts. They paid 85 a year for coal. Now, if that coal had been priced with inflation today, that would be about 300 per ton of coal. The actual price of coal when those contracts lapsed in 2005 was about 15 a ton. So in 1977, the actual price of a half a ton of coal, which you need to create a barrel of oil, was 45. And then you had the cap-ital cost and the operational cost to gasify it. Today, the input cost is 7. 50. That means your input costs are barely below seven and a half bucks. You can produce oil reason-ably - now, it is a little higher than that right now, but not much higher. You can reasonably produce gas or gasoline or liquid from coal at a price that makes a lot of sense. These are not Area 30 ideas. This is not...
