Excerpt: . . . of the League as to the specific objects desired, and that efforts to advance any particular plan in the future would be very greatly embarrassed by these differences, even to the injury of the general cause to which all were ready to subscribe. 3 So pronounced had these differences finally become, that the most devoted friends of federation were driven to the conclusion that the real purposes of the League would best be served by its dissolution. 1 Ibid. , chap. vi. . Ibid. , chap. viii. For text of the report, see appendix iv. 3 See an article on the dissolution of the League in the National Review, vol. 22, p. 814, and Lord Brassey, Imperial Federation, pp. 232 This was accordingly proposed in the spring of 1893, and formally accomplished in November of that year. Since that date there has been no organized body in existence whose object it is to further the adoption of an imperial federal government, and though the idea has been by no means abandoned, formal discussion of the subject has been less frequent. In a brief history of this movement, we may regard the dissolution of the League as the proper point at which to attempt a statement of the results which have been produced, though these have been to a considerable extent implied in what has already been said. First and most important as determining all that follows, is the awakened public opinion, the increased interest of the...
